Hi All

ABIG E- news this week!! With special TD news, E-Live info
New releases and much more!!

I am thrilled to announce that Groove is going to re-release 2 of the most beloved Electronic music albums of the past.
They will be ready during E-Live 2016!!

GR-228 Zanov - Greenray.

Zanov is one of the great electronic musicians of France of the past and present! Zanov is really Pierre Salkazanov who recorded three albums of electronic music between 1976 and 1983, Green Ray was the very first. He takes a spacy, minimalist approach, utilizing an ARP 2600 plus a VCS-3.

Groove is proud to re-release this Gem of the French history of Electronic Music!!

GR-229 - Walter Rothe - Let the night last forever.

I am happy to announce that Groove will release another Gem of EM from the past. This time it is the album "Let the night last forever" by Walter Christian Rothe!! The GR-229

Enigmatic, surreal, futuristic and ultimate romantic are the keywords to best describe Walter's first album "Let the night last forever". It was first released in 1985 and when I heard it I found for the first time a musician that gave me the same goose bumps as Vangelis.

The production of this album is STUNNING!! And I am glad we got the original files from Walter for the mastering. As special gift on this album there are 2 bonus tracks from that same period. One is from the Klem Cassette from 1986 which is due to the fact that it came from the original Cassette (that I still have :-)) a bit different in sound but not in music. I hope you will all love it!!

Check out all new releases from Groove in the last 2 months!!

Electronic music is our passion!!

GR-228 Zanol - Greenray

re-release of this gem of the past

GR-229 - Walter Rothe - Let the night last forever.

One of my favorite EM albums of all time.

GR-1004 Serge Devadder - Ganda

Serge Devadder (Brussels, 1966) is a self-taught musician with a strong interest in electronic textures and loops. Heavily influenced by ambient electronica, atmospheric film scores and classical impressionist minimalism, Serge Devadder has developed his own style of ambient sonic paintings but the basis has also connections with Berlin School.

Following some early solo and collaborative tape project and concerts in the 80-90s, Serge Devadder joined Vidna Obmana in 1999 for the CD The Shape Of Solitude on the Swedish Multimood label. Since then, Serge occasionally released solo tracks on various sampler CDs in Europe, the USA and Asia. 2014 marks the release of his full-length solo-album Cambrian and it was this CD that I really liked, it has one of the nicest atmospheres ever created on CD. And with this in mind I heard the recordings of his performance during this years Cosmic night on the 19th of March! And I instantly fell in love with it. This is music that captures the mind and soul.

GR-1003 - The Heisenberg Compensators - The Adventures of Werner and Random

During E-Live 2016 we have something special for you with Modulab. Modulab events present artists that bring their extended modular setups for a visual and aural experience. We feel that live modular synthesis is a unique art form that can be fun and exciting to experience.

And 2 of the artist from modulab are Stefan Robbers and Allard Krijger. And together they are The Heisenberg Compensators.

The Heisenberg Compensators' references the work of Werner Karl Heisenberg (1901-1976), known for his 'uncertainty principle'. The Heisenberg Compensators organize chaos in their music, at several levels. Quite literally, sometimes, with the aid of random generators. On other occasion, the randomness and organization lies in the energy going back and forth between Allard and Stefan. The Heisenberg Compensator is, of course, also a vital component of Federation Starship transporters.

37860 Cosmic Ground - Cosmic Ground 3

If EM of the vintage Berlin School style molded in the warmth of the analog is exercising on you an inexplicable attraction, the music of Cosmic Ground is a must! What! You still don't know Cosmic Ground? Unforgivable! And here is why... But before, attach your ears because they are going to run away!

After the dissipation of a veil of chthonian voices, a line of bass sequences makes beat 2 measures which throne on a filet of more discreet sequences and of which the movement becomes that of a train which wants to roll at a brisk pace through the clouds of dark voices which he meets. What strikes immediately the sense of hearing is the sound of the sequences. Even at a brisk pace and in their clothes of one-legged monks, they wind with a so different, a so warm tone, as their jingles get entangle like a thin line of rubber balls which jump up as a starving play of percussions. Fiery, the first 6 minutes of "Ground Control" offer a simply infernal structure of rhythm which leaves no chance to a few steps of dance to follow the fury of hundreds of sequences which jump, roll and tumble down through those many clouds of mists. If the movement gets quieter, it remains all the same rather lively with this meshing of sequences and percussions which sets in fire the 2nd part with sequences which overflow now by the lobes of our ears. Without nuances, set apart for the tones, and frankly, "Ground Control" presents a powerful pouring of sequences which wears out just a bit after having clocking the 12 minutes point, entailing the title towards one finale which refuses to let leave its hyper convulsive structure of rhythm. The dense ambiospherical effects will finally have reason of the crazy rhythm about of "Ground Control" near the 15th minute. This is a very sharp opening of Dirk Jan Müller! And if the very lively and abrupt movement of sequences have seduced you, wait to hear the one in "Crumbling Darkness". But it will not be before a good 6 minutes of an introduction densely ambiospherical where intersidereal gongs crumble their rumblings in a sound paradise tinted of wet voices and afterward in the violence of the winds which sing with their particles of sandy dusts. "Crumbling Darkness" gets away of this cocoon of atmospheres in order to offer a stunning movement of rhythm well sat on the spasmodic jolts of many sequences. Riffs and synth chords, which sound like those of the Green Desert years, wrap this structure of rhythm of which the main attraction is a series of dislocated and out of tune jumps which spring from a skeleton of a big snake which gets back its bones after each spasm. Imagine the image; it's a movement of rhythm without stops which quietly crumbles its last knockings in a thick wall of mists and luciferian voices. The combination of atmospheres and rhythms is perfect for the fans of the genre. You want more?

After noises, rumblings and cosmic winds, "Keep us in Space" gets rid of its short passage of ambiances to offer a structure of rhythm as edgy as the one in "Ground Control". If the movement is less fluid, it remains just as much violent with a line of bass sequences which undulates under the oscillatory snips of scissors movement of the main rhythm. Still here the structure of rhythm, as well as the percussions, brings us back to the Green Desert era. It's a furious rhythm which will run wild beneath a flight of sequences and electronic percussions for a big 16 minutes. The analog Modular overheats! After this fiesta of sequences and wild rhythms, "Monochrome Ritual" calms down the moods with a beautiful ambient rhythm, like those which have fed the beautiful analog years, with a Dirk Jan Müller in great shape who abandons a little bit the Modular in order to draw beautiful effects and elements of charms and atmospheres which were in the heart of the golden years of the psychedelic cosmic rock. The fans of Phaedra are going to ask for more of it ! And that's why it's essential to discover the universe of Cosmic Ground!

"Cosmic Ground 3" is in the lineage of the 2 first ones, but with a clearly more incisive approach at the level of sequences and, by ricochet, the structures of rhythm. I'm telling you straightaway, a repetitive listening risks to make you deaf, so much the power of the sequences attacks our indefatigable hunger for the analog rhythms of the 70's. Is it too much? Would need to ask your neighbors. I would say not at all, but I like that! The slow introduction of "Crumbling Darkness" moderates a little the violence of the rhythmic acts. And when we reach "Monochrome Ritual", we are like these crazy dogs who need to rest after having hunt 2 trains which rolled in parallel. It's a wonderful album for the fans of sequences and of hard and pure electronic rhythms, although the moments of atmospheres are not anemic.

===== Where to get Groove =====

As all know you can get all Groove titles on our website www.groove.nl

And for those who like to buy the music as a download we have of course the following outlets:

Most Groove releases are also available as Downloads on the Groove Download page.

Go to <https://shop.groove.nl/> and shop around,

But there are also releases by many other artists among them John Kerr, Remy.

For those who are a customer of CD Baby we have also a lot of titles there for in their program and we try to keep up with the stock there..

And they are also available through I-Tunes and Amazon downloads!

These have been added this year.

Groove is now also on Bandcamp.

The last months we have added new titles and we are adding them daily if the time allows!

<https://grooveunlimited.bandcamp.com/>

You can now order from bandcamp and I hope to add new titles fast!!
